HARRIS, OTTENHEIMER & CARSON, REAL ESTATE AGENTS, Dealers in Improved Farms, Timber, Coal & Mineral Lands in the Southern States

Offices: Crab Orchard, Lincoln county, Ky., and No. 21 Broadway New York.

We beg to inform the public that we have formed a co-partnership for the purpose of transacting a General Land Business. Parties wishing to dispose of their Lands will do well to communicate with us, giving full description, price and terms. We will advertise extensively all lands that are placed in our hands for sale.

CRAB ORCHARD.

A little son of Mr. Sim Middleton, aged 17 months, died Thursday of whooping cough.

Wanted, to rent a cottage of about 4 rooms. Address R. Lee Davis, Box 96, Crab Orchard.

Isaac Herron sold this week to McClure & Skinner, of Garrard, 18 head of cattle, averaging 1,100 pounds, at $27 per head.

Rev. and Mrs. M. C. Morgan are rejoicing over the advent of their first-born, a fine boy, which arrived Thursday night. The little stranger has not been christened yet.

The supper given by the ladies of the W. C. T. U. at College Hall Friday was well attended by both the wedded and unwedded, there being just enough of the former to tone down the buoyant hilarity of the younger set. Nevertheless, there was fun and plenty of it, with some amusing incidents. The affair netted about $20.

There be three things that the most patient of mortals tire of: the baby who squalls in church, the young man who can't unbind his jaw in ordinary conversation without spitting mandarin poetry in your face and the girl who says she "doesn't flirt" and at the same time a dozen young Romans are wearing a look of her hair next to their fluttering hearts.

A starchy coon, whose features are as black as the garret loft of Tartarus, approached the other day with the query, "What is the difference, boss, 'tween physiology and theology?" After telling him that the one treated of the human and the other of the divine; that the one was a flesh-and-blood-and-bones book and the other a spirit book, he replied, "De last am de thing I see after to convince de ignorant darkeys dat Jack de Ripper neber does his work 'thout law on his side."

Last week somebody sent us, written in dim, pokeberry fluid, a long-winded obituary of somebody else, who had shuffled off this mortal coil in some adjacent locality away back, God only knows where, asking us to print it "without delay" in this column. Now we are always thankful for any news item, but prefer that some one's name be pinned to it, for our protection anyhow. Be it known, however, that obituaries are not the most readable things in the world, and unless there's cash along with them, any other matter is preferable.

Mrs. J. A. Newland has been re-installed as railroad agent here and "Romero" White, who has "held down" the "posh" so creditably during her "lay-off," goes back to Lebanon Junction. By his gentlemanly bearing and accommodating inclination, Mr. White gained many friends during his stay here and his departure will occasion some regret, especially among the rose buds of femininity, with whom he was quite popular. Mr. L. A. Cass, of Brodhead, has been engaged by Mrs. Newland to attend to the telegraphic department.

A "reading match," supplemented with music, recitations and other entertaining features, is announced for Friday night at College Hall. The match will be participated in by a dozen or more of Prof. Smith's crack readers, the most proficient of whom a copy of Longfellow's poetical works will be awarded by three judges, who are to decide the contest. A 10-cent admission fee will be charged, the proceeds of which will go toward purchasing fixtures for the class-rooms. Let everybody attend.

Miss Maud Pettus is visiting Miss Lillie Warner, of Garrard. Mrs. Jean Davis, of Knoxville, is with her mother and sisters in the country. Mr. Robert Chappell, who was severely battered up recently on the Greensburg Branch, was in town Thursday, looking as if about well again. Mrs. Emma Farrar has returned home, after a pleasant visit to relatives at London. Mrs. Wm. B. Burke and Miss Lottie Dillon are spending a few days with their sister, Mrs. W. M. O'Bryan, of Stanford. Miss Mary Albright, the handsome daughter of Uriah Albright, Esq., is the guest this week of her cousin, Mrs. Charles Shumate, of Rowland. Mr. Egbert Wallin left this week for Forrest, Ohio, where he goes to take a position with his brother Frank. Mr. Henry Pettus, better known to his many friends as "doctor," has accepted a clerkship with J. B. Gilkerson and looks as pretty as a big sun flower behind the grocery counter. S. D. Hardin, J. Ward Moore and Clarence Hardin left Thursday to seek their fortunes among the boomers and capitalists of Barboursville and Middlesboro. Misses Maggie Tucker, of Maywood, and Sallie Owens, of Parksville, who have been visiting Miss Nannie Edmiston, returned home Saturday. Mr. James H. Carter, the well-known Highland democrat, was in town this week shaking hands with the boys and telling of the sensational arrest of those implicated in the burning of his store-house. Miss Kate Curtis has returned from a delightful trip to the Somerset fair. Mr. Sam Hardin and two captivating daughters, Misses Lorena and Birdie, drove up to Hustonville Sunday to see their aunt. Mrs. W. K. Buchanan is ill at her home and Miss Nannie Edmiston is posing as teacher in her stead. Mrs. J. A. Richardson and son attended the W. C. T. U. supper Friday night. Mrs. J. H. Stephens is in the city buying her fall stock of millinery. Mr. W. H. Traylor, of lower Lincoln, was here this week to see his lady love. Mr. Robert White is in from Middlesboro on a visit to his home folks.

HUSTONVILLE.

We never doubted that our William would be heard in the con con.

Tell Arch that this end of the county is solid for his P. O. partnership.

Joe McAlister and family were up last week visiting relatives. Joe and his grand-father spent a day in earnest discussion of Calvinism and Armenianism, but no converts were made.

The dry goods business is humming here and Misses Sallie Cook and Belle Bogie, two of the most fascinating young ladies in Lincoln county, will make the millinery line the most drawing enterprise ever projected in Hustonville.

"Dock" Austin's ordinarily erect and dignified carriage with elevated chin, has recently increased so palpably that a glance discovers the fact that he now leans back so far as to be a "leotie" out of plumb. The ever present smile is suspected to be an accompaniment to the constant wonder, "How long will it be before the little fellow will say po-pa."

Wes Hocker improves steadily and last Saturday was more like the Wes of 10 years ago than he has been this year. There is no doubt that Forepaugh's bill poster contributed something to his good feelings. Dr. Brown was on the sunny side of the house, his neck wrapped with a shawl because of tonsillitis. His early recovery is now as assured as Wes' wonderful improvement is evident.

The prolonged disappearance from town of Pat Castle and Sam Brown gives rise to daily inquiries as to their whereabouts. The fame of their dexterity with hammer and saw has reached the outer limits and they have been called professionally to Cumberland Falls. There is no general apprehension that they will do any Sunday fishing, immense as the temptation would be to the average Hustonville apostle.

Mr. Abram Lee and wife, of Casey, are visiting Mrs. Lee's sister, Mrs. Hugh Logan. Mrs. Maria Bradley, of Montgomery City, Mo., after an absence of ten years, is with her children and grand-children of this vicinity. Tom Metcalf, wife and Charlie Morrison were up last week visiting and prospecting. Tom's health has been such he is forced out of mercantile business and he wants a good farm. He made an offer to a West End for his 200-acre farm, Smith Yowell, of Columbus, Ohio, is at his father's.

Florence Yowell sold a pair of aged mules and 4 unbroke to Fox & Embury for $25. Calvin Carpenter sold 11 two-year-old mules at $90. Combest & Allen bought 50 good slopping cattle of Hunn & Burns and Emmett McCormack at 3 cents. They also bought a lot of 14 nice cotton mules, 3 to 6 years old, of Adair county parties; price withheld. They sold to E. W. Lee 120 wethers at $3.30. J. W. Allen sold a car of heavy shippers to E. W. Lee at 4¢. W. G. Cowan bought 16 topky yearling steers of Hunn & Burns at 3¢.

In the enumeration of your correspondent's weaknesses it would have been little justice to have put in a word or two complimentary of his prophetic gifts, in as much as you make him promise an increased average of wheat. However, I presume that the average proof-reader has little knowledge of the proper application, agriculturally, of the words acreage and average, as they are generally of the Spookendyke order.

Wheels, trusts, strikes, combinations, alliances, etc., claim much space in the periodicals of the day, and Mrs. Grundy had the good people here greatly wrought up by a rumor that the parties had Saturday morning repaired to Stanford to consummate a combine, rather alliance, which has been formulating since the roses began budding. In fact 'twas thought that a certain handsome young police judge from a Green River metropolis had persuaded a West End widow, of irresistible attractions, to turn from the score of local moths and millers, fluttering about with singed and burnt off wings and quiet an anxious public by adopting the name of Judge Nick Vaughn. That young but disconsolate attorney of Stanford must seek solace in foreign fields. The record of his rout must be wide spread when the widows twist him with his lack of nerve.

The mills of Northeast Casey threaten the complete denudation of that portion of the county's timbered lands contiguous to the West End. The daily procession of wagons loaded with staves and poplar lumber are a pleasing sight to holders of turnpike stock. The average wagoner complains of inadequate pay for his work, and a strike is imminent if not already on. The Jehus threaten that no scab shall haul for less than proposed schedule rates, unless he is prepared and content to cut through or around such obstructions as he'll find across the road after starting out with a load. I believe, however, that the war will be made on only the stave mills now. Is this thing of strikes an epidemic malady, which, after having run its course in the centres of its origin, attacks the outskirts, or are we "only creatures of imitation?"

James Woodson, of Honey Grove, Texas, dropped in lately without warning on his few remaining friends and associates of 22 years ago. Time has been more indulgent to him than to many of his old acquaintances, who recognized him at a glance, but whose names he had to ask. His visit recalled many enjoyable reminiscences. Jim Cook told him that he has never known when the Masons would meet since Woodson moved to Texas. He never missed a meeting of his lodge and his appearance on the street in his Sunday clothes soon became an announcement to Hustonville of lodge night. He had forgotten (?) that when, as a reflection on the cigars some medical students were smoking, he gave Dr. Brown, then a student, a dime to buy some good ones for the crowd, that the messenger returned and resumed his seat smoking the best imported Havana of that day. When W. finally asked for the cigars he was informed, "Your money bought only one and I thought I'd smoke my part first."

BEACH & BOWERS' MINSTRELS.—Of this famous minstrel organization, billed for appearance at Walton's Opera-House on Saturday evening next, the 27th, the Nashville Herald says:

The best minstrel performance that has been in Nashville this season was given at the Grand Opera-House last night by the Beach & Bowers' combination before a full house. From the time the curtain went up until the performance was over, the house was in a continual round of applause. The songs were all new and well rendered—Bobby Beach, in his song, "Mary and Martha" took the house by storm. Moncayo, the contortionist, is the best that has come this way in some time. The Mexican drill was presented in an artistic manner by well known artists, led by the inimitable Bobby Beach, and introducing all the magnificent movements of that body. Beach & Berens, the silence and fun artists; Delmore and Wilson, song and dance artists; Sparks and Hiatt, in their wonderful Zouave drill, Werner and Berens, in their wonderful break-neck songs and dances, were all above the average. The whole concluded with a grand extravaganza entitled "Aunt Hannah's Christening," introducing the mysterious cottage, which was very amusing.

In only five States now can a teacher legally flog a pupil. But there are many other ways in which an unruly archer can be made to feel very uncomfortable.

Advice should be like a gentle fall of snow, and not like a driving storm of hail it should descend softly, and not be uttered hastily.

Gov. McCreary Electrifies the Virginians.

HANOVER, C. H., Va., Sept. 18.

DEAR INTERIOR.—To-day, in the historical old court-house of Hanover, and in the same room where Patrick Henry has delivered many stirring speeches to his constituents, there appeared one, who, in every particular, was a most worthy successor to that old hero of colonial times, who wanted liberty or death. It had been extensively advertised that ex-Governor James B. McCreary, of Kentucky, would address the people of this county on the topics of the day which confront the nation, and in behalf of the Hon. George D. Wise, democratic nominee for Congress from the Third district of Virginia, and the honest yeomanry from the surrounding country turned out in large numbers to hear our gifted statesman and scholar from the Blue-Grass region expound those loving principles and doctrines which protect the home and the fireside and which every true democrat holds so sacred.

After a beautiful allusion to the Old Dominion, the ex-governor said he was happy to come to Virginia and speak for brave, gifted, true and tried George D. Wise. He had seen him faithful to his constituents and serving them well, and had also witnessed the stealing of his seat by the republicans. The proceedings on that occasion were the most disgraceful he had ever witnessed in the House, or ever expected to see. The governor talked at length of the tyranny of Speaker Reed, the despotic rules which had no precedent in history; the squandering of the surplus money in the treasury; the passage of a tariff bill which increases the burdens of taxation $60,000,000 per annum, and the enactment of a silver bill which even good republicans out west repudiate.

He spoke with most effect upon the force bill. The provisions of that measure, he said, were so alarming that the Senate heeded the protests that came from all over the country and refused to pass it. It is not dead, Gov. McCreary went on to declare, but is now trembling in the balance. It will not be passed before November. The republicans are waiting to see how the elections will result, and if it is in their favor they will feel that their course is approved and will then trample the constitution under their feet. They have declared time and again in Congress that the people of the country desire this force bill, and the coming election is the time for the citizens of this government, which God set up for others to be modeled after, to say whether or not rights of free Americans shall be trampled upon.

The speaker explained in detail the provisions of the force bill, and showed the people very clearly that should such a measure be passed they would be at the mercy of the republicans, as federal supervisors will register and count the vote and issue the certificates of election, and a jury of republicans will try all cases of persons charged with violating the law. Nothing but evil would come of such a law and bloodshed would most likely result.

In conclusion the governor declared that the democratic outlook was never brighter and every indication is that they will have from 25 to 50 majority in the next House and will sweep the country in 1892.

To say that the people were completely carried away with the governor but mildly expresses it and expressions like this were heard on every side: "It was one of the most powerful arguments I ever listened to," while others declare that it was a masterpiece.

At the close of the speech Speaker Cardwell, of the House of Delegates, arose and said as we had listened to one of the grandest political addresses ever made in the county, he moved a vote of thanks to the congressman from the Eighth Kentucky district, which was heartily given.

That Gov. McCreary made many votes for the democracy goes without saying. W. B. WALTON.

His arm was round his shoulder laid, he pressed my head against his breast; I sighed, but not a word was said, I felt his heart beat through his vest. His fingers warm upon my cheek, still toward his eyes compelled my face; I only felt; I could not speak, fast fettered in that strong embrace. Pain-racked, sore tired, I fain would flee; his arms my futile struggles flout, "Madame, a little patience. See" I rise, I smile. My tooth is out!

DEMOCRATIC TICKET.

For Congress,

JAMES B. MCCREARY.

We were aware that there was strong opposition to Frank Finley, even in his own county of Whitley, and so stated in a recent issue, but we feared that his opponents were not courageous enough to lead a bolt against him. At the convention at Williamsburg Saturday County Chairman Rose attempted to organize the body for Finley, but B. T. Harding, a lawyer and a good speaker, got up and made a rattling speech against him and called on his men to adjourn to the Williamsburg Hotel. They did so in large numbers, completely overflowing it. Judge Raines was elected chairman and a list of delegates appointed, among whom are Attorneys B. T. Harding and R. S. Crawford, Sheriff M. A. Moore, Mart Raines, ex-county judge, J. H. Davis, ex-county clerk, and others equally prominent in county politics. They were left uninstructed, except by the resolution adopted, which says: "We hereby unanimously declare our opposition to H. F. Finley, for the reason that he has ignored the republican party of his district, and in no event has been of any service to them." The other body endorsed Finley and appointed delegates to vote for him, but was so rattled it forgot to endorse Harrison or any of the party measures. In Laurel Judge Vincent Boring beat the Little Red Hog just as easy and got the instructions. Bell county instructed for John H. Wilson first and Boring second, while Knox instructed for Wilson first, last and all the time. In Pulaski a very disgraceful row occurred, in which pistols, knives, &c., were drawn. A split resulted and two sets of delegates were named. One set is to vote for Trimble, the others go uninstructed. Finley gets Russell, Neil Adair and Col. Adams Casey, though a correspondent writes that there was some feeling against him because it was claimed he was in the ring that counted Judge Raines out. The fight seems now to be between Boring and Finley, with the chances about even, though the former's friends are betting heavily on him.

The democrats in Congress, declining to be party to the outrage proposed by Boss Reed in the rape of seats from their members, have so far prevented him and his mob from unseating Mr. Venable, of the Petersburg, Va., district, who was honestly elected by about 1,000 majority, and putting the negro, Langston, in his place. They did it by filibustering and breaking a quorum, resolving that if the theft is to be committed the republicans must do it with their own members. Reed ordered the door locked, but Kilgore, of Texas, kicked it down and strode out of the prison the tyrant would keep him in. The door fell against Congressman Dingley's nose and came near breaking it. The republican members are off fixing their fences for re-election, leaving Reed without a quorum of his own and practically for the time reducing him to a servant, instead of the dictator of the body over which he has the power to preside. He has telegraphed his minions to return, however, and the outrage prepared for Mr. Venable will be accomplished in a few days.

An effort is being made to have the clause of the old constitution making preachers ineligible as legislators left out of the new. For the good of the country and for the sake of religion it is hoped that it will not be done. A preacher's place is in the pulpit and not on the rostrum. The world has great respect for a true minister of the gospel, but nothing is more deserving of contempt than the political parson. A preacher cannot become a politician and obey Paul's injunction to "keep yourself unspotted from the world."

Another terrible railroad accident has been added to the ever-growing list. An express train on the Reading road ran into some wrecked cars near Shoemaker, Pa., and was thrown down an embankment into the Schuylkill river. The train was crowded and it is estimated that fully 40 were killed or drowned, while as many more were injured. More than 20 bodies have been taken from the river and the work is not complete.

BREX. POLK, of the Democrat, is making life uncomfortable for Brer. Arnold, at Middlesboro. Polk beat Arnold for city printer; so Arnold got mad and would not let Polk have anything to do with the editorial blow-out up there recently. At least that's the way Polk states it. Boys will be boys.

The friends of Mr. J. K. McCracken late general passenger agent of the Louisville, St. Louis & Texas railroad, and they include all who have ever had business with him, will be glad to learn that he has been promoted to general manager of his road, and wish him success in his new position.

The Mississippi constitutional convention adopted the report establishing ability to read or understand a reading of the State constitution as an electoral qualification.

Is referring to the fact that Judge Beckner, a zealous educational champion, was not given the chairmanship of the committee on education by President Clay, it was far from our intention to find fault with the one he did select for that position. Our sole object was to show that Mr. Clay could not rise above personal pique and forgive a man who had taken an active part for another in the race for president of the convention. For fear, however, that our article may be construed to reflect on the appointment of Judge R. P. Jacobs to the chairmanship of the committee on education, we hasten to say that personally it gives us much more satisfaction than would the selection of Judge Beckner, whose advocacy of the Blair bill and of aid to the State College are especially repugnant to us. Judge Jacobs is our neighbor and personal friend, and there is no man in the convention, or in the State, for that matter, for whom we entertain a higher regard and whom we had rather trust to do the proper thing in any matter, be it either of a constitutional, legal or moral nature.

The governor has appointed Edward O. Leigh to be Assistant Secretary of State. Ed is editor of the Paducah Standard and one of the brightest and best fellows in Kentucky. The appointment is an excellent one and a handsome recognition by Gov. Buckner of his truest friends, the editors.

The Covington Commonwealth is at a loss to know why this paper and the Courier-Journal should have used the identical language with reference to its objection to the Virginia county court system. As the I. J. used it several days in advance there is not so much wonder about it.

A resolution providing that there shall be no more than one election, State, county and municipal, held in one year, is before the convention and should be adopted by all means. The great number of elections now provided for keeps the State in one continual stew of political turmoil.

One editor, who shall be nameless here forevermore, was so much pleased with our Middlesboro letter that he used several paragraphs of it in his. We are obliged for this flattering evidence of his appreciation, even if he failed to credit.

CONSTITUTIONAL CONVENTION.

The convention would do well to let the capital question alone, save to permanently locate it at Frankfort.

Resolutions covering every object under the sun have been introduced forming a mass of matter that it would take many volumes to hold.

Col. R. P. Jacobs offered a resolution to require officers to take an additional oath that they had not secured their election by the use of money and other fraudulent means.

Another committee known as the railroad and commerce has been organized. Mr. Miller is a member of it, making him now a member of three committees, the other two being rules and circuit courts.

Mr. Miller offered a resolution Saturday to have the court of appeals consist of seven judges, to be elected for terms of 14 years, provided that one shall be elected every two years; to divest the circuit courts of criminal jurisdiction and vest it in the county courts; to abolish the office of Commonwealth's attorney and make county attorneys public prosecutors. Mr. Miller says his plan will save $200,000 in salaries annually.

CONTINUED.—When the cases of Russell, Smith and the Cains, charged with robbing and burning Jim Carter's store, was called yesterday, the circuit courtroom was packed with people, showing the great interest that the case had excited. They were doomed to disappointment, however, for the Commonwealth had failed to secure some important witnesses and asked a continuance, which was, after some objection on the part of the accused, granted, and next Friday at 10 o'clock fixed for a peremptory trial.

THE young ladies of Lebanon will entertain at Mrs. S. D. Ray's in that city on Friday evening next. Our junior and a number of the young people here are under obligations for invitations.

BIO. MONTGOMERY, we learn from the Harrodsburg Democrat, was tendered the prohibition nomination for Congress by the so-called convention there, but he declined. Of course he did; Brer Montgomery is no hog. He knows when he's got enough.

WHOSE PIG is it?—About a year ago a little red pig was found by Alex Martin in the cattle pen at Rowland and thinking perhaps that it might be of service to him some day, he took it home and cared for it like a loving father does his child. A year has passed and the pig is now a 250-pound hog. Mr. J. E. Bruce, who never forgets anything, saw the resemblance of the fat swine to a pig he had lost and now claims it as his property. Mr. Martin admits that he found the pig, but says that it is his and that he does not intend to give it up, and also states the impossibility of a man's remembering such a thing after so long a time. He will not submit the case to arbitrators and as Mr. Bruce says he intends to have the hog, a law suit will likely follow.

SKULL CRUSHED.—Alex Walker, porter for Higgins & McKinney, was struck on the head by a heavy hickory stick thrown by some one from the rear of Capt. Middleton's construction train, Saturday night. Alex was walking on the platform at the depot when the train passed, and was molesting no one. The act was therefore a piece of pure devilry, which will be dearly paid for if the scamp is caught. Drs. Peyton and Reid think that the base of the skull is broken, which if true makes the wound necessarily fatal. Alex is an unusually well-behaved darkey and is much thought of by the white people, as well as by his own race. Judge Shelton yesterday arrested Tom Carter, one of the men who were on the train, and lodged him in jail to await the result of the man's wound. He avers his innocence, however, and says he can prove that he was in the front car when he passed Stanford. The act lies between three and the other two are spotted and will be brought to trial.

As we go to press we learn that the wounded man is dead. This makes a case of murder against the cowardly scoundrel who had so reckless a disregard for human life.

GET IT AT LAST.—For a long time Will Gooch, a worthless fellow of the Milledgeville neighborhood, has been making himself exceedingly obnoxious by disturbing religious and other gatherings. A short time ago he walked into church and getting into the middle of an aisle drew two pistols and commenced to do the Comanche act. In a moment the church was vacated and no one had the courage to say him nay. Next day young Joe Carson was appointed to arrest him, but he and his party held him off and the attempt was a failure. When Carson next came to town he was in his buggy and as he stopped two pals of Gooch, John Bragdale and another fellow, seized Carson and held him while Gooch gave him a terrible drubbing with his fist, beating him in the face and threatening to kill him. They then took his buggy and drove to Hustonville and other points. Carson swore out a warrant and it was placed in the hands of Constable J. H. Alcorn to be served. Hearing that Gooch said he would not be taken, the constable summoned a posse, consisting of Calloway Nance, James Thornton and Wm. Badgett, and started on his errand. They found Gooch and ordered him to surrender, but he drew his pistol instead and when he started to use it, Mr. Thorton let go at him with a shot-gun and put 13 buckshot into his worthless carcass, three of which passed clear through him and 10 lodged in his bowels. Gooch has been a terror to his neighborhood and if he dies, as in all probability he will, the riddance will be a good one and no tears will be shed by the law-abiding. Yesterday the constable and his posse came in and gave themselves up to Judge Varnon, but were released on their own recognizance. Gooch's pistol showed that he had snarled twice at Mr. Alcorn. It is a singular fact that when he told young Gooch was in 15 feet of where his father was killed by Nick Morrison some dozen years ago.

CANARY BIRDS for sale. George Faris.

STRAYED.—An Alderney yearling heifer. I would be obliged for information of her whereabouts. D. W. Vandever.

I WILL begin next week to collect town taxes and ask that the citizens of Stanford be ready when I call on them. O. J. Newland, Marshal.

NOTICE.—Dr. J. F. Peyton and I. M. Bruce, committees, will receive bids till Saturday, Sept. 27, for lighting and cleaning the street lamps by the month.

THE trial of Beatty Wickliffe for the murder of Evan Warren, at Danville, was not given to the jury till yesterday afternoon, and it had not agreed at last accounts.

A PORTION of my fall and winter millinery has arrived and I invite an inspection of it from the ladies of Stanford and vicinity. Miss Lena Ellis, who has charge of my store, will be pleased to wait on or show goods to all who call. Mrs. M. E. Elkin.

EXCURSION.—For the veterans' reunion, the Blue and Gray, at Knoxville, Tenn., October 7-9, the Queen and Crescent Route will sell excursion tickets to Knoxville and return, good for 10 days, at low excursion rates. Full particulars can be obtained on application to agents of the Queen and Crescent Route, or agents of connecting lines. Two express trains daily via Harriman. Through sleeping cars without charge.

SEVEN of the 10 county committeemen were here Saturday to elect a chairman and secretary of the committee. They were Dr. Green Moore, J. H. Chappell, W. P. Grimes, J. H. Carter, George P. Bright, L. L. Dawson and Thomas Richards. Dr. Moore was called to the chair and upon Capt. Richards being named for county chairman he was elected by a unanimous vote, as was Mr. Chappell for secretary. The meeting was quite a pleasant one. Mr. Bright made a nice little speech in which he said that the democracy of the county was more united and in better trim than for a long time. The committee recognized the fact that so far as Brer Gilliam is concerned there will be practically no opposition to Gov. McCreary, but will urge every democrat to go to the polls and roll up such a vote as our Model Congressman deserves.

WHILE in Richmond Friday we were placed under many obligations to our former countyman, Mr. W. D. Weatherford, who seems to be coming money in his new home. He tells us that his business this year will aggregate $18,000, notwithstanding there are six other establishments of like nature in the city. A spin over town behind his 2:30 mare revealed to us the steady growth of Madison's capital in the last decade. There has been no attempt at a boom, but houses, manufactories and other enterprises have sprung up, giving the place a real city air. Street cars were added last week and a new railroad now competes with the K. C. for its traffic. Richmond is a live place and no mistake, and we were gratified to find that our brethren of the quill, Messrs. F. M. Green, French Tipton and C. E. Woods had kept step to the march of progress and are each getting rich.

TEXAS.—From Mr. John T. Gano, banker and real estate dealer, Dallas, Tex., who is here to take home his wife, who has spent the summer with her mother, Mrs. E. T. Rochester, we learned some interesting facts concerning Dallas and the Estado Land & Cattle Co., in the latter of which a number of our citizens are considerably interested. The latter has not been doing much in the matter of dividends, but has gone along paying running expenses and increasing its holdings of land and cattle. Starting a few years ago with 6,000 cattle and 50,000 acres of land, it has increased the former to 18,000 head and the latter to 85,000 acres. The low price of cattle has caused the company to hold for better prices, which are bound to come. At present a 3-year-old steer is worth only $15 to $16 on the ranch, whereas a few years ago they brought $26. It only requires 6 or 7 men to see after this vast property and attend to the stock. Of Dallas present and prospective Mr. Gano is very enthusiastic. The real estate transfers average $3,000,000 a month and there are now under construction buildings to the value of $2,500,000. There are 9 National and 3 private banks, with a capital and surplus of $4,000,000 and deposits of $8,000,000, while cotton and other factories are numerous. The new census gives the place about 60,000 inhabitants, including the suburbs, which is nearly 600 per cent. increase. The State Fair will begin Oct. 18 and last 3 weeks. There will be a splendid exhibition and among the celebrities who will attend are Mr. and Mrs. Cleveland, Carlisle and possibly Blaine. One day will be set apart for Kentuckians and many noted ones are expected. They will be entertained by the ex-Kentuckians who have located there and a royal banquet will be tendered them. Mr. J. S. Armstrong, who married one of Capt. F. J. White's pretty twin daughters, is president of the fair company, for which he is paid $5,000 a year. Mr. Gano tells us that Mr. Armstrong is one of the best business men in the State and is rapidly getting to be a millionaire. Mr. E. T. Young, formerly of this county, who married the other Miss White, is in the lively business there and is also doing first-rate.

Dink Farmer came in yesterday with "Santa Claus" Dalton, the last of those charged with robbing and burning Carter's store, and he was lodged in jail.

JAILER OWENS found three little saws in the jail yesterday, when he searched it on having his suspicions aroused. He thinks the wife of James Fuson, who is under sentence of 21 years for murder in Bell county, brought them to him on her recent visit to the jail.

CHURCH AFFAIRS.

—Mrs. Eugenia Dunlap Potts will furnish the music for Rev. G. W. Dunlap's meetings at Lancaster.

—The Christian Endeavor Society continues to be largely attended. The meeting hour has been changed from 6 p. m.

to 5 p. m. Sundays.

—Rev. G. W. Dunlap announces in the Record that he will hold union services at the Court-House in Lancaster, beginning on the 25th.

—The amount of money now raised by 100 missionary societies in America and Europe is put at $12,000,000, of which $5-

500,000 are raised in America. The contributions of all the Protestant communicants in the world average less than one cent a week for each communicant.

—There is a great deal of excitement

just now in Richmond society circles over the fact that Mrs. Nannette H. Willis, nee Harris, daughter of the late Dr.

John Harris, of Richmond, has brought suit in the Chancery Court of Richmond for divorce on the grounds of cruelty and licentiousness.

Effect of Prohibition.

Prohibition is not only a flat failure,

but it paralyzes all States and communities where it prevails. This startling

statement is fully borne out by the following facts gathered by the New York

Sun:

The people of the New England States,

namely, Maine and Vermont, live under prohibitory laws. According to the theory upon which the system of prohibition is founded these communities should be in an exceptionally flourishing condition. The census returns should indicate the benefits of State interposition to check the consequences of bad personal habits, and to steer the citizen straight

in the pathway of sobriety, industry and thrift.

What is the case? In Maine, where prohibition has been on trial for nearly half a century, the growth of population

during the past ten years has been about 9,000, or 1 1-4 per cent.

In Vermont there has been no increase of population. On the contrary, during the ten years since 1880, which have witnessed such amazing progress

in other Commonwealths, there has been an actual decrease of about 300 in the number of Vermont's inhabitants.

New Hampshire, sandwiched between

Maine and Vermont, and affected by almost precisely similar conditions, except

such as proceed from mistaken experiments in sumptuary legislation, has grown just 10 per cent., while Maine was growing 1 1-4 per cent. and Vermont

was losing ground.

Turning to the West, where marvelous growth is the rule on every side, we find the two prohibition States of Kansas and Iowa. Here the experiment is recent, but the system has been long enough on trial to produce results.

In Kansas the increase in population

during the ten years is from 996,096

to about 1,080,000. Vast as that increase seems to be it is much smaller than was to be expected. Against Kansas' increase of 68 per cent., her neighbor

at the north, Nebraska, has increased

122 per cent., and Colorado, her neighbor at the West, has increased 110 per cent. In the ten years between 1870 and 1880 the gain of Kansas was 173 per cent.

In Iowa the loss of headway is still more striking. The gain of the 10 years is only 246,000 or 1,624,615, or 18 per cent.

But in Nebraska, as we have seen, whose eastern boundary touches that of Iowa, the increase has been 122 per cent, and in the still older Minnesota,

just to the north, the increase has been 81 per cent.

These figures are interesting and they deserve the attention of everybody.

The Harvest Moon.

Say, boys, and you, too, girls, do you know that the Harvest moon of 1890 is now in its first quarter? Happy she who saw it first over her plump and snowy

and dazzling right shoulder, for she shall be married before a Harvest moon wax-

es and wanes next year—at least so say

Scottish folk-lore, and in many respects

that is better than the lore of the books.

Of the Harvest moon, one of the sweetest of the English classics saith:

"The kiss that would make a maid's cheek flush,

And as if kissing were a sin,

Under the Argus eye and tell-tale glare of moon,

Would cause but a murmur and a blush

'neath the Harvest moon."

Since the gentle Ruth nurtured the feet of Boaz in her, at once widowed and virgin bosom, when the threshing floor

groaned with the bounties of the fields

in which she had gleaned, since Isaac awaited the approach of the beauteous

Rebecca, the Harvest moon has been the time of festivity in matters of love.

Now is the time boys, if you would win her, now is the time, girls, if you would catch him. Under the Harvest moon Cupid plays more capers than was ever dreamed of in the philosophy of Tennyson, who talked about robins, laplings, doves and young men in connection with spring time.—Louisville Times.

DEATHS' DOINGS.

—Ansel Wood, a well-known citizen of Pulaski, is dead.

—Mrs. Judge Randall, of London, died

Saturday, aged 71. She was the mother of Mrs. Vincent Boring and C. M. Randall, and an excellent christian woman.

—Julia, the two-year-old daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Charles P. Ware, now of Somerset, but formerly of this county, died Thursday and its remains were interred in Buffalo Cemetery Friday. Early in the spring the little one drank

some concentrated lye and it had never been well since.

We, Too, Have an Empire on Which the Sun Never Sets.

Webster's eloquent description of the British Empire is very readable, but we doubt whether it is generally realized that we, too, have a dominion on which the sun never sets. It will hardly be believed, perhaps, without an examination of the maps, that San Francisco, instead of being the west line of this dominion, is only about midway between our eastern and western limits; and yet it is a fact that the furthest Aleutian isle

acquired in our purchase of Russian

America, is as far to the west of that city as Newport, Maine is to the east of

it. Between the north-west limit of Washington Territory and the southern limit of Alaska there is a break of a few degrees, but with the slightest reduction

our territory extends through 196 degrees of longitude, or 17 degrees more than half way round the globe.

Hence, when the sun is giving its good-night kiss to our westward isle, on the confines of the Behring sea, it is already flooding the fields and forests of Maine with its morning light, and in the eastern part of the State is more than an hour high. At the very moment when the Aleutian fisherman, warned

by the approaching shades of night, is pulling his canoe toward the shore, the wood-chopper of Maine is beginning to wake the forest echoes with his stirring music of the ax.—Great Di-

Prison Tortures.

A startling story of the horrible cruelties which the convicts in the Colorado

State penitentiary at Canon City are subjected to has just come to light. A convict, several days ago, managed to smuggle a letter through the kindness of a visitor, and private investigation has just resulted in a corroboration of all charges made. According to these charges, at the least offence a convict is subjected to punishment known as the drowning process, in which the convict is strapped to a post so that he cannot move a muscle. The instrument of torture consists of a hose. With the no-zzle within six inches of the convict's

face, a stream with 60 pounds pressure is turned on. The unfortunate cannot breathe and when he opens his mouth

he is strangled. The water is forced down his throat and all through his head. The punishment is continued until the convict becomes unconscious, and then the prison physicians are called to resuscitate. Many are to-day physical wrecks through this torture.

This means of torture is, however,
